About the BEMCC:

Binational Emergency Medical Committee consists of highly educated & trained people from the United States and Mexico. The professionals at BEMCC represent the medical field, federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, social workers, consular officials and hospital personnel. They are a well rounded team getting you the quickest attention and transportation available. Understand that this is an incredibly technical process from border to border arranged quickly and legally for your immediate medical attention.

The idea behind this service was to establish a much needed system of international cooperation designed to help victims of car accidents, fires, floods, man-made or natural disasters, and for any remote medical emergency from Baja California to the US.

INSURANCE:

- If you have medical insurance, check with your provider to see if you have international coverage and coordinate with the BEMCC and your insurance provider to make sure of coverage for air ambulances.
- If you do not have insurance, inform BEMCC so they can advise you of insurance possibilities while traveling outside the US. Without insurance coverage, you will be personally charged for costly air ambulance fees.
- Without insurance, they will need reimbursement for fees related to calls and duties made in your behalf. If the person does not have money to pay for the emergency evacuation, they will look for a volunteer pilot and that takes time. The U.S. Coast Guard (free) will be called only on extreme situations and they aren't always able to respond.
- No matter your insurance provisions, this service will come for each member's medical emergency.
